C. University of Mobile, New CRNA Doctorial Program Application

Ms. Bartley reported that recently the Alabama Board of Nursing promulgated rules to require Alabama Board of Nursing approval of new advanced practice nursing education programs. ABN rules for establishing a new nursing program require two-part process. In Phase I, the governing institution must submit a letter of intent and a feasibility study. The Board then reviews the letter of intent, feasibility study, and supporting documentation for completeness and compliance with rules and regulations and provide guidance regarding forward progress of the plan. In Phase II, the governing institution for the proposed program submits an application for approval to establish a new program. If all standards for approval are met, then the Board may approve the new program.

University of Mobile is in the Phase I stage of the application process with the ABN. On March 23, 2021, University of Mobile submitted a Feasibility Review to the Alabama Board of Nursing with supporting documentation. Board staff conducted a review of the materials submitted by University of Mobile and prepared an Evaluation of a Proposal for establish a New Program Phase I. The phase II application information was included as well.

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges has already approved University of Mobile's Doctor of Nursing Anesthesia Practice Program. The Council on Accreditation (COA) of Nurse Anesthesia Education Programs anticipates making a decision regarding accreditation of the program in May. The anticipated enrollment date for the proposed new program is Fall 2021.

Based on a review of the submitted materials against the requirements in ABN rules, Board staff determined that University of Mobile met all of the Phase I and II regulatory criteria.
